U.S. health insurers to waive some fees, extend coronavirus coverage, Pence says

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - Private U.S. health insurers agreed to extend coronavirus treatment coverage in all of their plans and waive co-payment fees for testing, Vice President Mike Pence said on Tuesday, as the White House came under growing pressure to help those hurt by the outbreak. The number of cases of the highly contagious respiratory illness caused by the virus has risen steadily in the United States this week, stoking concerns of a health and economic crisis that could pummel workers and companies.

"We want the American people to know that they are covered with private insurance, they are covered with Medicare and Medicaid," Pence said at a White House meeting with health executives, referring to the government-funded programs for Americans over age 65 and the poor.

Pence did not mention the millions of uninsured Americans.

The vice president, who is heading the government's response to the outbreak, said more than 1 million test kits for the coronavirus were in the field and that 4 million more were going out this week. "We want people to get tested," he said.

Health officials in New York state and other parts of the country hard hit by the coronavirus have complained about a shortage of testing capacity.

The White House also has come under attack for a lack of epidemic preparation by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and early problems with their coronavirus test kits that delayed confirmation of results.

Senate Democratic leader Chuck Schumer said the country was "far behind" in testing people for the new coronavirus and President Donald Trump should make ramping up that capability his highest priority.

"This is a healthcare crisis, it demands a healthcare solution," Schumer said on the floor of the Senate as lawmakers considered measures to protect the economy from a sharp contraction due to the outbreak.

Trump was heading to Capitol Hill on Tuesday afternoon to discuss what action should be taken. During the White House meeting he said the administration intended to also help airlines and the cruise line industry.

REUTERS/Leah Millis U.S. coronavirus cases have climbed to 791 and there have been 27 deaths, most of them in Washington state, according to a tally by Johns Hopkins University. That tally did not include a death reported in New Jersey on Tuesday, the state's first.

After U.S. stock indexes suffered the biggest one-day sell-off since 2008 on Monday, Trump said his administration would take "major" steps to gird the economy and discuss a possible payroll tax cut with congressional Republicans.

A payroll tax cut could encourage consumer spending and help households that might otherwise struggle to make rent and mortgage payments on time, or pay medical bills if family members' work hours are reduced during the outbreak.

While some Trump administration officials have broached the idea of targeted tax relief to help airlines and other industries hurt by the outbreak, Democrats are pushing for paid sick leave and other measures to protect workers.

Stimulus hopes buoy Wall Street after rout

(Reuters) - Wall Street rose 1% on Tuesday as investors pinned their hopes on policy easing by major central banks after global markets plummeted in the previous session on fears of a coronavirus-driven recession.

Traders now expect the Federal Reserve to cut interest rates for a second time this month, with President Donald Trump adding pressure to bring U.S. rates down to the level of "competitor nations".

All three indexes briefly turned negative in morning trade, but quickly reversed course as a report said the Trump administration had discussed a 90-day payroll tax suspension. (on.wsj.com/3aGq6kn)

"The primary action of a payroll tax cut will be to improve investor confidence in the short term," said Rob Haworth, senior investment strategist at U.S. Bank Wealth Management in Seattle.

"As long as people are able to hang on to their jobs, the payroll tax cuts will be quite supportive."

Boosting sentiment further, Vice President Mike Pence said private U.S. health insurance companies had agreed to cover coronavirus treatment and waive co-payment fees for tests.

Traders will also focus on Trump's news conference later in the day for further hints on measures to contain the outbreak, which has now infected more than 114,300 people globally and led to over 4,000 deaths.

Wall Street's main indexes plunged more than 7% on Monday, the 11th anniversary of the market's longest bull run, as oil prices plummeted following pledges by top producers Saudi Arabia and Russia to increase output in an over-supplied market.

At 1:32 p.m. ET, the Dow Jones Industrial Average .DJI was up 286.22 points, or 1.20%, at 24,137.24, and the S&P 500 .SPX was up 40.30 points, or 1.47%, at 2,786.86. The Nasdaq Composite .IXIC was up 146.61 points, or 1.84%, at 8,097.29.

Rate-sensitive financial .SPNY stocks firmed 0.8% after suffering their worst day in more than a decade as U.S. Treasury yields bounced off record lows. [US/]

United Parcel Service Inc (UPS.N) gained 4.4% as Stifel raised its rating on the package delivery company, while Amazon.com Inc (AMZN.O) rose about 4% as Cowen & Co raised its price target on the retail giant's shares.

Wall Street's fear gauge slipped about 2.3 points to 52.20, after closing at its highest since the financial crisis. Underlining the volatility in the market, advancing issues matched decliners almost 1-to-1 on the NYSE and the Nasdaq.

The S&P index recorded three new 52-week highs and 97 new lows, while the Nasdaq recorded five new highs and 514 new lows.

多肉植物当中有一个比较个性的品种，他叫做熊童子，他的叶片长得像一个熊掌一样，带着红红的尖，非常的漂亮，有的花友也叫它熊掌，它虽然好看，但是养护的过程中很容易出现掉叶子的情况，它掉叶子是什么原因引起的，我们应该注意哪些事情呢？

第2点是由于通风差所导致的，因为多肉植物它必须要

在一个通风好的环境中养，特别是我们浇水以后，通风差浇水以后长时间不干，根系虽然没烂，但是在一个淤积的土壤当中处于闷根的情况，闷根后它吸收不了那么多水分，只会导致它烂根，只会导致它的叶片一碰哗哗的全部往下掉，最后只剩下主干。

一般在夏季养熊童子的话，尽可能不浇水，保持盆土的干燥，如果叶片蔫的非常厉害的话，我们可以选择在夏季一

个通风好的时间，特别是连续几天温度不是太高，在30度稍微多一点，选择在晚上给它浇水，浇水以后放到外面通风的环境中待上一晚上，这样浇水以后晚上温度比较低，通风又比较好，它会快速吸收水分，通过风会把盆土中大部分的水分挥发掉，等到白天的时候，我们再把它拿到原来的地方去养护，这样就不会出现根系问题，就不会出现叶片脱落的情况，而且又补充了水分。

熊童子其实并不难养，一般除了夏季之外，其他的季节都是能够长得非常好的，只需要我们多见光，保证良好的通风，盆土干透及时的给他浇透水，再去适当的给他补充一下肥料就可以了，但是在夏季一定要记住，尽可能少浇水，平常养护一定要保证通风，一定要放到光照充足的地方去，才能够养好它，到时候养的熊童子叶片又大又肥厚，满盆的小爪子上面全是红红的。

君子兰长出花苞来，多做“3件事”

君子兰每年都能够开花，只要植株足够大就可以了，好多花友养君子兰，看到它长出花苞来了，以为它不需要别的东西了，直接让它开花就行了，最后导致我们的君子兰出现夹剑，甚至花苞脱落，开不起来等的情况，今天小齐就给大家说一下，君子兰出来花苞以后应该注意哪些事情，应该怎么去养护。

君子兰出来花苞，第1点必须要多见光，因为光照充足了以后，叶片进行光合作用进行的好，光合作用进行的好，养分回流到根系上，根系长得好，根系长好了以后，吸收养分充足，才能够让他的花剑快速的长高，快速的把花开起来。

第2点肥水不能缺少，它的花苞虽然长出来了，但是花剑还是比较矮的，花还没有开放，水分和肥料

是必不可少的，掌控好良好的浇水方法，让植株不缺水，如果缺水的话，花苞会打蔫，叶片也会打蔫，甚至会出现干根的情况。肥料也是要给他的用的，因为他的花要彻底的长高，彻底的开起来，一般在他花苞长出来以后，肥料一直持续使用到他的花彻底开放的时候停止就可以了，直接选择磷钾元素含量高的肥料，就能够保证它把花开起来。

第3点就是要保证良好的通风度，君子兰养护一定要保证通风，特别是浇水以后通风差会导致烂根烂叶的情况，本身它的花长出来了，它再出现烂根甚至烂叶的情况，到最后吸收不了养分，它的花必然会出现问题，无论开花生长季节，通风是必不可缺少的。

君子兰如果长出花苞来了，这3点给它做到，多见光，别缺水，保证良好的通风，定期的给他补充肥料，就能够让他的花彻底的开起来，等它的花彻底的张开了以后，如果我们想要延长一下花期的话，可以适当的把它放到一个光照弱一些的地方去，它能够开花的时间更久一些。平常养护的话也是这样，保证良好的通风度，盆土快要干透，及时的给他浇透水，肥料一个月给他2-3次补充着，他就能快速的长叶片，并且根系也不会出现问题，到了夏季休眠的时候，我们尽可能的少浇水或者不浇水，做好遮阴工作，夏季短短的几个月度过了以后，其他时间就比较好了，君子兰其实并不难养，按照小齐说的方法就可以了。

Texas Lab Leading The Way On Coronavirus Research

One of the best weapons on the fight against COVID-19 is right here in Texas — a high security biocontainment lab where some of the best minds in medicine are looking for answers.

It's a nondescript building on the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston but, inside the Galveston National Laboratory are some of the scientists leading the offense against COVID-19.

It is a high security facility so locked down that very few images from inside are ever let out. "No photography" signs hang prominently in the halls, the first thing we saw when we walked out of the elevator.

this virus if they can somehow be used to control the virus and there are some very promising candidates," he said. Soon, an antiviral drug could be available.

Researchers are also working on prevention — a vaccine that would stop people from getting COVID-19. "We have done a lot of work on two other coronaviruses that have been epidemic in the near past.

It's an opinion state leaders take very seriously. "We are not surprised by cases like this arising," Governor Greg Abbott told reporters on Thursday, as cases in the Houston area were reported.

While scientists are racing to find answers, Dr. Le Duc says people have hard decisions to make about events like Spring Break and SXSW, because social isolation works.

Just two miles away, small waves break on the shore facing outward toward the Gulf of Mexico. This week, just a few people are wading into the water and digging in the sand.

Spring Break begins for universities and school districts across Texas. That could be the test of how willing people are to stay away from large public activities.

Americans over 60 should stock up on food and medications and avoid venturing out as the coronavirus spreads

In a media briefing on Monday about the novel coronavirus, Dr. Nancy Messonnier focused on making recommendations for people at a higher risk of getting ill from the virus.

She also said that eventually "many people in the United States" will be exposed to the virus and that "there's a good chance many will become sick."

For now, she said, people over 60 should stock up on food, medication, and other necessities so they can avoid needing to venture out too much.

Caretakers and family members should help older people prepare, and develop a plan for what they'll do if either they or the people they're caring for get sick.

While people over 60 are at a greater risk of becoming ill than younger folks, it's important for people to understand that risk increases with age, making people in their 80s and 90s at the highest risk, especially if they have chronic health conditions too.

Country Wakes Up To Deserted Streets In Unprecedented Coronavirus Lockdown

ITALY QUARANTINES ENTIRE COUNTRY

Compiled And Edited By John T. Robbins, Southern Daily Editor

ROME (Reuters) - Italy woke up on to deserted streets in an unprecedented lockdown on Tuesday after the government extended quarantine measures across the entire country in a bid to slow Europe's worst outbreak of the coronavirus.

The measures, announced late on Monday by Prime Minister Giuseppe Conte, widen steps already taken in the rich northern region of Lombardy and parts of neighboring provinces, clamping down on movement and closing public spaces.

"The future of Italy is in our hands. Let us all do our part, by giving up something for our collective good," Conte said in a tweet, encouraging people to take personal responsibility.

For at least the next three weeks, people have been told to move around only for reasons of work, for health needs or emergencies or else stay at home. Anyone traveling will have to fill in a document declaring their reasons and carry it with them.

Large gatherings and outdoor events, including sports, have been banned, while bars and restaurants will have to close from 6 p.m. Schools and universities will remain closed until April 3.

"The whole of Italy is closed now," was the headline in the Corriere della Sera newspaper.

As day broke, the streets of Rome were eerily much quieter than normal, with cars circulating freely under a clear blue sky in the normally traffic-clogged center, reflecting the atmosphere in the financial capital Milan, already under stricter controls.

Rome commuters could easily find seats in the usually jam-packed underground system during the morning rush hours.

People wearing masks in the streets of the capital was more widespread than before.

Shortly after the measures were announced, shoppers in Rome rushed to late-night supermarkets to stock up on food and basic necessities, promoting the government to declare that supplies would be guaranteed and urging people not to panic buy.

Shops are allowed to remain open as long as customers maintain a minimum distance of a meter between them.

The measures came after the latest data showed the coronavirus outbreak continuing to rise, with 9,172 positive cases recorded as of Monday and 463 deaths, the second highest-level in the world after China.

The World Health Organization has praised Italy's "aggressive" response to the crisis, since the first cases emerged near Milan almost three weeks ago but the economic cost has been huge.

On Monday, the Milan stock exchange dropped over 11% and Italy's borrowing costs shot up, reviving fears that an economy already on the brink of recession and struggling under the euro zone's second-heaviest debt pile could be plunged into crisis.

Conte has already promised "massive shock therapy" to help deal with the immediate economic impact of the crisis and on Tuesday, Industry Minister Stefano Patuanelli said the government would approve measures worth around 10 billion euros.

It's an extreme measure that effectively locks down 60 million people in one of the most populated countries in Europe, where more people have tested positive for the coronavirus than any country outside of China. Conte also announced that all public gatherings and sporting events would be banned.

More than 9,000 people have tested positive for the coronavirus in Italy, with more than 450 deaths recorded as of Sunday — up from 97 just one day prior. The rapidly spreading outbreak has put immense pressure on Italian officials to act.

Italy placed the entire Lombardy region, as well as 14 other northern provinces, under travel restrictions this weekend, leading to mass chaos as Italians scrambled to change travel plans before the decree went into effect.

Conte said that the new decree impacting the entire country would go into effect Tuesday morning and that it is designed to protect the most vulnerable citizens. He advised all Italians to stay home and avoid traveling unless it's an emergency. (Courtesy <https://www.reuters.com/> and axios.com)
