U.S. directly communicating with North Korea

(Reuters)

(Reuters) - The United States said on Saturday it was directly communicating with North Korea, seeking to start a dialogue with Pyongyang as its advancing nuclear and missile programs stoke fears of an armed confrontation.

U.S. Secretary of State Rex Tillerson made the disclosure about the communications during a trip to China and said it was important to find a way to reduce tensions with North Korea. "We are probing, so stay tuned," Tillerson told a group of reporters in Beijing. "We ask: 'Would you like to talk?' We have lines of communications to Pyongyang. We're not in a dark situation, a blackout."

He said that communication was happening directly and cited two or three U.S. channels open to Pyongyang.

"We can talk to them. We do talk to them," he said, without elaborating about which Americans were involved in those contacts or how frequent they were.

The goal of any initial dialogue would be simple: finding out directly

Several North Korean missiles were recently spotted moved from a rocket facility in the capital Pyongyang, South Korea's Korean Broadcasting System (KBS) reported late Friday in Beijing, which has been alarmed by recent exchanges of war-like threats and personal insults between North Korean leader Kim Jong Un from North Korea what it wants to discuss.

"We haven't even gotten that far yet," he said.

Tillerson's remarks followed a day of meetings and Trump.

"I think the whole situation's a bit overheated right now," Tillerson said. "I think everyone would like for it to calm down.

"Obviously it would help if North Korea would stop firing off missiles. That'd calm things down a lot."

South Korean officials have voiced concerns that North Korea could conduct more provocative acts near the anniversary of the founding of its communist party on Oct. 10, or possibly when China holds its Communist Party Congress on Oct. 18.

North Korea is fast advancing toward its goal of developing a nuclear-tipped missile capable of hitting the U.S. mainland. It conducted its sixth and largest nuclear test on Sept. 3 and has threatened to test a hydrogen bomb over the Pacific.

U.S. officials including Tillerson say Beijing, after long accounting for some 90 percent of North Korea's foreign trade, appears increasingly willing to cut ties to its neighbor's economy by adopting United Nations sanctions.

Tillerson said he believed China's more assertive posture was due to its realization that North Korea's nuclear and missile capabilities had advanced too far.

U.S. Secretary of State Rex Tillerson (L) meeting with Chinese President Xi Jinping (R) at the Great Hall of the People on September 30, 2017 in Beijing, China. REUTERS/Lintao Zhang/Pool "I think they also have a sense that we're beginning to run out of time, and that we really have to change the dynamic," Tillerson said.

The goal of the sanctions would be getting North Korea's Kim to view nuclear weapons as a liability, not a strength.

S&P 500, Nasdaq hit records on tech lift

The S&P 500 and the Nasdaq advanced to record levels on Friday, buoyed by gains in technology stocks, while each of the major indexes closed out the quarter with solid gains.

Technology .SPLRCT was the best performing of the major S&P sectors, up 0.75 percent, its fourth straight day of gains to recover from a selloff earlier in the week.

The S&P and Nasdaq closed at records for the third straight day and the benchmark S&P index posted its sixth straight month of gains.

"It really sums up kind of what we saw all month and all quarter, another calm day," said Ryan Detrick, senior market strategist at LPL Financial in Charlotte, North Carolina.

"This is one of the least volatile Septembers in history, it is kind of a continuation of that real dull trading with a nice upward bias."

For September, the Dow gained 2.1 percent, the S&P rose 1.9 percent and the Nasdaq advanced 1.05 percent.

Facebook's (FB.O) 1.23-percent gain provided the biggest lift to both the Nasdaq and the S&P to help pace the advance.

Sept. 28 (UPI) -- The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services on Thursday said it is opening a special enrollment periods for Medicare and the healthcare exchange for people affected by the recent hurricane season.

Some U.S. residents affected by Hurricanes Harvey, Irma or Maria may be able to make changes to their Medicare plan or drop the plan starting from the beginning of the incident date through the end of the calendar year.

The CMS also opened up 2017 plan enrollment for those who experienced a special qualifying event between 60 days before the qualifying event and Dec. 31. The regular open enrollment period for the healthcare exchange for 2018 plans is Nov. 1-Dec. 15. People who live in areas affected by hurricanes could have until Dec. 31 to enroll.

“The lives of millions of Americans have been disrupted and impacted in some way by recent hurricanes,” said CMS Administrator Seema Verma. “Setting up special enrollment periods gives Medicare beneficiaries and individuals seeking coverage on the Federal Exchange the opportunity to access health coverage during this difficult time and when they need it the most. We remain committed to doing all we can to help support the areas and individuals affected by these historic and catastrophic hurricanes.” (Courtesy <https://www.upi.com>)

Royal Caribbean Cancels Cruise, Sends Ship To Help Puerto Rico

Set to arrive in port last week, the 3,800 passenger cruise liner will be delivering supplies and evacuating people from the Caribbean island, according to CNN.

Puerto Rico was devastated by Hurricane Maria a little more than a week ago and continues to suffer from flooding, lack of power, communication and damaged buildings.

In an emotional interview, the mayor of San Juan, Puerto Rico described the island's situation as a "humanitarian crisis" and issued a S.O.S for anyone able to help.

Governor Ricardo Rossello and Resident Commissioner Jennifer Gonzalez, the island's representative in Congress, have said they intend to seek more than a billion in federal assistance and they have praised the response to the disaster by President Donald Trump, who plans to visit Puerto Rico next week, as well as FEMA Administrator Brock Long.

Royal Caribbean's cruise ship isn't the only privately-owned vehicle heading to Puerto Rico to help. Dallas Mavericks owner Mark Cuban recently let one of the team's players borrow his plane to aid in recovery efforts. In addition, rapper Pitbull is also sending his private jet to aid hospital patients on the island. (Courtesy Chron.com)

Faith-based, Voluntary and Nonprofit Organizations May Be Eligible for FEMA Disaster Grants

Marines and Sailors with the 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit help distribute food, water, and supplies in support of the Federal Emergency Management Agency in the aftermath of Hurricane Irma as citizens raise a flag at a distribution point in Key West, Florida, U.S. September 14, 2017.

AUSTIN, Texas – Faith-based organizations, in addition to other community, volunteer, and nonprofit organizations in areas eligible for the Federal Emergency Management Agency's (FEMA) Public Assistance program as part of a Presidential Major Disaster Declaration may apply for FEMA grants to help them get back to the business of helping others.

As part of its mission, FEMA provides grants to state, local, tribal, and territorial governments and certain private nonprofits through its Public Assistance program. Community, volunteer, faith-based, and private nonprofit organizations conducting critical and essential services of a governmental nature that sustained disaster damage may be able to receive FEMA Public Assistance (PA) grants to repair or replace their facilities so they can continue offering critical and essential community services.

Types of organizations which provide critical services that may qualify for FEMA PA grants include:

- Private schools that provide elementary or secondary education or an institution of higher education;
- Hospitals and other medical-treatment facilities; and
- Utilities including water, sewer, and electrical systems.

Types of non-critical, essential services that may be eligible for Public Assistance grants include:

- Senior citizen and community centers or other community services;
- Food programs;

Disaster recovery assistance is available without regard to race, color, religion, nationality, sex, age, disability, English proficiency or economic status. If you or someone you know has been discriminated against, call FEMA toll-free at 800-621-3362 (voice, 711/VRS - Video Relay Service) (TTY: 800-462-7585). Multilingual operators are available (press 2 for Spanish).

- Educational enrichment activities;
- Custodial and day care services;
- Disability residential services;
- Assisted living and low-income housing;
- Homeless shelters and rehabilitation services; and
- Performing and community arts centers.

Additionally, when any organization, such as faith-based organizations, schools, or community centers, provide emergency protective measures such as sheltering and feeding survivors on behalf of state, local, tribal, or territorial governments, FEMA may reimburse the costs of those services to the state, local, tribal, or territorial government. The government and the organization must enter into an agreement for these services, even if the agreement is post-event; and the government could then reimburse the organization.

Only organizations with state or IRS tax-exempt status may be considered. For more information about eligible essential and critical service providers, go online to FEMA.gov and reference the Public Assistance Program and Policy Guide.

Organizations that provide services of a non-critical, essential governmental nature must first apply for a low-interest disaster loan from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) before being considered for a PA grant. Public Assistance grants may be able to provide assistance to organizations that provide non-critical, essential governmental services for repair or replacement costs that SBA loans do not cover.

The SBA may provide up to $2 million to most private nonprofits in the form of low interest disaster loans. To learn more about and apply for an SBA loan go online to sba.gov/disaster or email disastercustomerservice@sba.gov. If you cannot access the website, call 800-659-2955. If you use TTY, call 800-877-8339.

The first step to receive a FEMA PA grant for your faith-based, community, volunteer or other private nonprofit organization is to submit a Request for Public Assistance (RPA) to the state, tribe, or territory within the deadline, typically 30 days after designation of the area but it may be extended. Information on the RPA deadline is updated on state, tribe or territory emergency management websites. Faith-based organizations should contact their state, local, tribal, or territorial emergency management office for more information.

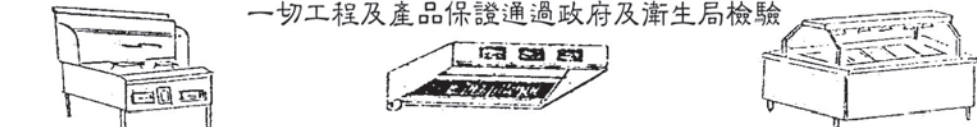

For more information on Hurricane Harvey and Texas recovery, visit the Hurricane Harvey disaster web page, the FEMA Harvey Facebook page, the @FEMARegion6 Twitter account, and the Texas Division of Emergency Management website.

FEMA's mission is to support our citizens and first responders to ensure that as a nation we work together to build, sustain and improve our capability to prepare for, protect against, respond to, recover from and mitigate all hazards.

德州观音堂文化中心讲座： 在天灾人祸不断的今天，我们如何保护好自己

各位师兄好，我是德州观音堂 Lisa Lay，这次 Harvey 飓风大家最初以为是新闻夸大，但没想到会这么严重。

8/26 晚上雷打个不停，雨也一直下，晚上不时被雷雨声吵醒，一直半睡半醒，凌晨三点查看新闻说某某社区还有龙卷风，心里开始重视。

8/27 早起发现一夜暴雨，水都快淹到后门了，门口的街道也被水淹。我想最坏情景应该结束了吧？但事情不是这样，早上雨下不停，后院积水离后门差不多50-60%，从下午三点到九点雨一直没有停过，到晚上八、九点雨越下越大，水位已经涨了70%，并且还在继续上涨，我开始紧张了。没多久水位已涨到85%-90%，只差一点点就会淹过后门进入家里，当时情况非常紧急，我祈求观世音菩萨保佑不让水位继续上涨，然后嘴里一直念着消灾吉祥神咒，没多久雨开始变小，水位慢慢下降，真的是菩萨妈妈保佑啊！

8/28 雨还是下，但水位一直都没有超过50%，事后我看新闻，得知这个飓风形成两条band。在Band上方城市情况非常严重，我们居住地在两条band的中间，情况还不算太糟。

8/29 好多路段被封，但我们社区的情况非常好，道路也通了。我跟妈妈说去观音堂看看吧，许多师兄出不来，大家都非常关心观音堂的情况。到了那边，观音堂完好无恙，感恩菩萨妈妈保佑！

记得师父说过，现在末法时期，天灾人祸很多，一不小心就会走人，师父要我们好好修心修行，多做功德。师父也说要常常跟菩萨沟通，每天念经就是最好的方法。

以上分享有不如理不如法的地方请观世音菩萨原谅，请各位师兄原谅。感恩菩萨，感恩师父，感恩大家！
