The Killer's Motive Is The Biggest Mystery

A woman lights candles at a vigil on the Las Vegas strip following a mass shooting at the Route 91 Harvest Country Music Festival in Las Vegas, Nevada, U.S.,

LAS VEGAS (Reuters) -

October 2, 2017

Law enforcement officials puzzled on Tuesday over what motivated

After one of the deadliest mass shootings in United States history, killing 59 and injuring more than 520, one question hung heaviest over Las Vegas: Why?

retiree with no criminal record to assemble an arsenal in a high-rise Las Vegas hotel and rain gunfire onto a outdoor concert. killing at least 59 people. The gunman, identified as Stephen Paddock, ended Sunday night's shooting spree, the deadliest in modern U.S. history, by killing himself. He left an arsenal of 42 guns but no clear clues as to why he staged the attack on a crowd of 20,000 from a 32nd-floor window of the Mandalay Bay hotel. More than 500 people were injured, some trampled. Federal, state and local investigators have found no evidence that Paddock, 64, had even incidental contacts with foreign or domestic extremist groups, and reviews of his history show no underlying pattern of lawbreaking or hate speech, a senior U.S. homeland security official said on Tuesday."We cannot even rule out mental illness or some form of brain damage, although there's no evidence of that, either," the official said, speaking on the condition of anonymity to discuss the probe.

Paddock's brother, Eric, has described himself as equally mystified by the attack.

The attack stirred the fractious debate about gun ownership in the United States, which is protected by the Second Amendment to the Constitution, and about how much that right should be subject to controls.

well-off enthusiast of video poker and cruises, with no history of mental health issues.

President Donald Trump told reporters on Tuesday that Paddock had been "a sick man, a demented man." He declined to answer a question about whether he considered the attack an act of domestic terrorism.

Trump was due to visit Las Vegas on Wednesday.

Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi visited Costa Rica late last week and continued on to Panama over the weekend, where he inaugurated a new Chinese Embassy on Sunday as part of his country's effort to expand its presence in Latin America.

"Panama is an important transport nexus in the Western Hemisphere and has a well-developed financial sector," Wang said, adding that the country could play a key role in increased trade, investment and diplomacy in Latin America and the Caribbean.

Most nations in the Central American region maintain diplomatic ties with Taiwan. The exceptions are Costa Rica, which ended its diplomatic relations with Taipei and initiated ties with Beijing a decade ago during the administration of President Oscar Arias, and now Panama

Panamanian President Carlos Varela called the opening of the Embassy "a historic moment."

Before heading to Panama, Wang visited San José, where he signed a cooperation memorandum with Foreign Minister Manuel González.

"We have had 10 years of good cooperation" with Costa Rica, Wang told reporters at Casa Amarilla, the Foreign Ministry, where the signing of the memorandum was overseen by President Luis Guillermo Solís on Sept. 15.

Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi (R) and Panama's vice president and foreign minister Isabel Saint Malo de Alvaradoa during a talk on June 13, 2017 in Beijing, China.

Wang's talks with Gonzalez and Solis took place as the UN Security Council met and condemned North Korea's latest launch of a ballistic missile over Japan. China is North Korea's sole ally.

In addition to discussing bilateral issues, Gonzalez said the talks included "a brief review of the situation in the Korean peninsula." He did not elaborate.

Wang declined to respond to an AFP reporter's question on North Korea.

The Chinese minister was stopping in Costa Rica and Panama on his way to the United States, to participate in the UN General Assembly in New York. He is due to give a speech there on Thursday.

China already has close investment ties with Costa Rica, where it has built several major projects including the National Stadium in Sabana Park. The new memorandum aims to deepen that relationship with further development of Costa Rican infrastructure, as well as boosting trade and cultural, educational and tourist exchanges, and cooperating on clean energy. U.S. Orders Expulsion Of 15 Cuban Diplomats

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - The Trump administration on Tuesday ordered the expulsion of 15 diplomats from Cuba's embassy in Washington following last week's U.S. move to pull more than half of its own diplomats out of Havana.

U.S. Secretary of State Rex Tillerson said the latest decision was made due to Cuba's "failure to take appropriate steps" to protect American personnel in Cuba who have been targeted in mysterious "attacks" that have damaged their health.

The steps being taken by President Donald Trump's administration mark a further blow to his predecessor Barack Obama's policy of rapprochement between Washington and Havana, former Cold War foes. A State Department official said the number of expulsions was selected to make sure the U.S. and Cuban embassies would have "equitable staffing levels" while investigations continue into the unexplained "health attacks."

The U.S. decision to expel a large portion of Cuban staff at the embassy was communicated to Cuban Ambassador Jose Ramon Cabanas on Tuesday, and the diplomats were given seven days to leave the United States, the official said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The move follows an announcement on Friday that the United States was sharply reducing its diplomatic presence in Cuba as it warned U.S. citizens not to visit because of attacks that have caused hearing loss, dizziness and fatigue in U.S. embassy personnel.

"Until the Government of Cuba can ensure the safety of our diplomats in Cuba, our embassy will be reduced to emergency personnel to minimize the number of diplomats at risk of exposure to harm," Tillerson said in a statement.

"We continue to maintain diplomatic relations with Cuba, and will continue to cooperate with Cuba as we pursue the investigation into these attacks," he added.

The number of American diplomats suffering symptoms has increased to 22, the State Department official said.

The official maintained that despite the U.S. moves, Washington was not assigning "culpability" to Cuba's Communist government.

Several Cuban-American Republican lawmakers, including U.S Senator Marco Rubio and Representative Ileana Ros-Lehtinen, had urged that Cuban diplomats be expelled in retaliation for the Cuban government's failure to get to the bottom of the attacks. (Courtesy Reuters)

Houston's Taylor Construction Project Management Thrives With Capital Improvement Projects In Texas, China And Beyond

Houston, TX - Since their start-up days, Taylor Construction Management has been recognized for their commitment to philanthropy, professional development, global thinking and rapid year over year revenue growth. Their highly effective business style lead to an international presence that flourished after their first project was carried out in mainland China. "Our entry into the international market was a bit unorthodoxed as that is where we got our start.

We've managed to maintain consistent work in Asia and we are, often, offered nobid projects due to our reputation in the Asian market," said Kelley Taylor, TCM Founding Partner and CEO.

"What we have found is that a lot of international companies, especially in the bioscience industry, have a healthy respect for the Western code compliance, so they that we have someone who is well-versed in US codes and compliance to oversee their projects. Every now and again, Troi likes to stay in the saddles of doing projects, so he tends to do our projects in

In their worldwide pursuits, TCM is consistently chosen for large-scale development support because of their ability to navigate cultural and inter-company norms. Texas A&M University System (TAMUS) has recently chosen TCM, for a competitive Project Management Support Services (PMSS) contract. TAMUS uses these services to augment their Facilities Planning and Construction (FP&C) department as they manage capital improvement projects across their 11-system universities in Texas.

TCM has been selected multiple times by TAMUS as a value-added solution to provide project management and construction code inspection services on projects ranging from sports complexes and administrative support buildings to dental and nursing schools. Recently, TAMUS released a Request for Qualifications (RFQ) to add master agreement for PMSS and, for the third consecutive time over a 5-year period, TCM was chosen as a valued resource. "In just six years, my husband and I have developed Taylor Construction Management into an award-winning global firm by making customer service a top priority," said Kelley Taylor, TCM Founding Partner and CEO. "Receiving the distinction of a third contract with TAMUS further cements our drive to break down barriers as minority entrepreneurs in this industry and execute every project to perfection."

Memorial Hermann Heart & Vascular Institute

This project, recently completed, is a new, multi-story facility on the MHHS campus adjacent to the existing Cullen Pavilion. On average, the capital improvement budget has ranged from $1B to upwards of $3B. The contract is open-ended so there is no established budget or project scope. TAMUS has the right to add scope to the blanket contract to augment FP&C on any capital improvement project throughout their network.

"Taylor Construction Management has been an invaluable asset as they continue to provide project management services in College Station, Stephenville and various locations in North Texas," said Russ Wallace, Executive Director for TAMUS FP&C. "We've renewed this partnership again and again because of the elevated level of service we experience while collaborating with Kelley and Troi Taylor, as well as the ethics, dedication, innovation and industry knowledge they continue to put forth."

Since their start-up days, TCM has been recognized for their commitment to philanthropy, professional development, and rapid year over year revenue growth. Their PMSS contract with the Texas A&M University System will enable them to once again demonstrate their planning, design and construction expertise on a large scale.

FAFSA® student aid filings begin October 1

If you're a high school or college student, or their parent, it's nearly time for the 2018-19 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA®) form, which becomes available October 1, 2017.

By Colleen Tressler Consumer Education Specialist, FTC

Completing the FAFSA form is free, and it gives you access to the largest source of financial aid to pay for college or career school. Submit your FAFSA form as soon as you can. Many states and schools allocate funds on a first-come, first-served basis. And some states have deadlines for filing the FAFSA form to be eligible for certain kinds of state aid.

There's no need to wait until your family has filed their income taxes to submit your FAF-SA form. The 2018-19 form requires 2016 tax information. You may be able to transfer your tax information directly from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) by using the IRS Data Retrieval Tool. The tool returns for the FAFSA form October 1.

While you're at it, remember never to share your FSA ID (it's what you use to log in to fill out your FAFSA form). And watch for scholarship and financial aid scams. Ads or offers from companies may claim they can get you financial aid, including grants, student loans, work-study and other types of aid. For a processing fee, they say they'll handle all the paperwork. But the only way to get access to all that aid is by filling out your FAFSA form. And that's free.

If you hear from companies or see offers that say they'll process your FAFSA for a fee, stop. You can find

ATF announces $11,000 reward after guns stolen in pawn shop robbery

Three men who robbed an east Houston pawn shop last week are still at large, authorities said.

On Sept. 28, the trip entered the Cash America Pawn on the 6000 block of Lyons brandishing handguns and using masks to hide their faces. One of the thieves shot fired off a shot, authorities said, before the three fled the store with four firearms and $19,000 worth of jewelry. They drove away in a black, 2004 Chevrolet Monte Carlo with damage on the front end, according to a news release detailing the robbery. Authorities released this description of the robbers: The first man was wearing a black hooded coat and black pants. The second was wearing a black jacket, gray pants, tan hat, tennis shoes. The last robber was wearing a gray hooded coat, red pants, sandals. All three men concealed their faces, were described as being approximately 6 feet tall and weighing 160 pounds.

Anyone with any information about the robbery should contact ATF at 888-ATF-TIPS or CrimeStoppers at 713-222-TIPS, he said. Individuals can also submit information through the mobile ReportIt® app, available both on Google Play and the Apple App Store. Tipsters can remain anonymous.

Organic mattress claim put to bed

By Alesha Hernandez Consumer Education Specialist, FTC

with a safety shield it invented.

When I had my first child, I investigated everything I bought—especially the crib mattress. I researched the companies selling the mattresses and the materials in the bedding. Some parents will spend top dollar for the comfort or safety rating, while others may invest in an organic label. But what if a company makes claims it can't support? According to the FTC, one company, Moonlight Slumber, LLC, deceptively advertised its mattresses as organic and labeled its products

The FTC's first misleading organic bedding complaint has details. Moonlight Slumber, LLC advertised one of its mattresses as "organic" and another as > a "safe, organic alternative to traditional crib mattresses." The truth is that the cores of the "organic" mattresses—the parts that makes up most of the mattress—and the fire barriers are not organic, and about 70% of the cotton covers are not organic. The company also made up a "Green Safety Shield" certification and awarded it to itself.

So what can you do if you're not sure about a company's claims about its products? Get the facts:

Do your research on the product and the company. Look for reviews on impartial sites not associated with the company.

Check out certifications: Seals or certifications can be useful, but only if they're backed up by solid standards. The package also should tell you about any connections the company has to the organization behind the seal, if that connection might influence your opinion about the certificate or seal. An online search may give you information about how long a certification has existed, and who is behind it.
